Raising Readers Update

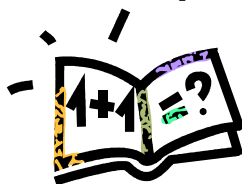

Did You Inherit Raising Readers?

We know some of you inherit the role of site coordinator when a co-worker leaves or takes on a different role. And we know you may not receive a lot of training in the hectic transition. If you feel you could use a little brush up on how the program works, give us a call, we'd be happy to swing by and walk you through it.

What a Team!

Many thanks to all of you for your prompt response to the recall of Animal Play. It's always better to be safe than sorry, so we appreciate your help in getting the word out to parents so quickly. You're a great team.

The Raising Readers Equation

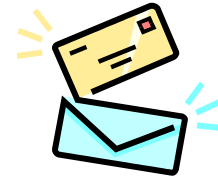

We don't often think of Raising Readers as a math program but there's a simple equation at its foundation.

1 well child visit = 1 book given

Please keep this formula in mind as you give out books in your practice. Be sure and let us know how many books you've given, too. We need to know how many books you gave out and how many you need to order.

Keep Us in the Loop

The start of a new year seems to be the time for housekeeping details. So, if you've had an address, phone, fax, etc. change - please let us know.

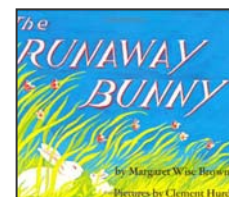

Winter Fun

Raising Readers is pleased to partner with another Libra Foundation project, Pineland Farms, on a Winter Book Festival for Kids. Join the fun 10 - 3:30 pm on February 5th at Pineland Farms in New Gloucester.

For more information, visit www.raisingreaders.net.

Make Way for The Runaway Bunny

If you order 18-month books in February you may receive The Runaway Bunny in place of Clap Your Hands, which became unavailable to us. This is temporary while we choose a more permanent selection.
